Cheryl Martin recently left her position as Director of Bibliographic Services at McMaster University Library to begin a new career at the Royal Bank of Canada. Initially she will be working in personal banking at a branch in the Toronto area, but she hopes to end up in a position that will allow her to use her library and/or music skills.

Joy Tillotson (Memorial University of Newfoundland) died, of cancer, on Feb. 20. The following obituary appeared in the MUN

Gazette on March 3: Joy Tillotson, Head, Information Services Division of the Queen Elizabeth II Library, 49, passed away at the Miller Centre, St. John's, NL, on Feb. 20, 2003. Born in Quebec City, she was raised in Wolfville, N.S., and attended Acadia University (B.Sc.), Memorial University (M.Sc.), and Simmons College (MLS). She was employed as a professional librarian at the Institute for Marine Dynamics and at Memorial University. She enjoyed volunteering for Amnesty International, participating in the arts community in St. John's by singing with Saraband and the MUN Festival Choir, playing in the Gower Street Band and supporting the theatre community. An important part of her life was entertaining and being entertained by her wide circle of friends. She was an active and valued member of the Atlantic Provinces Library Association. Both in her academic work in mathematics and her research career in library studies, she demonstrated a high standard of excellence. She was predeceased by her father Glen, and is survived by her mother Doreen, Wolfville, N.S.; sister Shirley, Halifax; brother Jim (Jane Cayford), Wolfville; and her many close friends in St. John's. She will be sorely missed. At Joy's request, donations in her memory can be made to the Joy Tillotson Memorial Fund at the Queen Elizabeth II Library, Memorial University, A1B 3Y1.
